

My comments on proceeding 17-108

The pro-monopoly proposal to disestablish net neutrality is abashing. How can we allow for the internet to become nothing more than a playground for the companies with the most cash. The U.S. is has a free market economy that every citizen enjoys. Net neutrality allows for the internet to be included in the free market and not become easily corrupted. My opinion is that we should keep the internet as it is, free for all ISP's. This allows competition to promote prosperity and prohibits the rise of monopolies that our government has continuously fought against in years past. Thank you for your consideration and please listen to the opinions of the people, not the industry goons.

Sincerely,
Marc Austin Daniels
A concerned internet user